Biological Engineering Communication Lab
Fellow Application

The Comm Lab is looking to hire several new Fellows.

About the Communication Fellowship:
- Fellows are paid $15/hour and typically contribute 3-5hrs/week towards Comm Lab related activities.
- Fellows receive hands-on training throughout the first year on topics like scientific papers, figure design, and job applications. Trainings also emphasize best practices in feedback, coaching, and mentorship.
- Fellows will coach peers, develop workshops, and create innovative initiatives to meet the Communication needs of the department.

To be considered for a Fellowship, please email this application and a copy of your CV/resume to Prerna Bhargava by 5pm, Friday, March 23, 2018. We appreciate your thoughtful response. We will be sending notifications by Monday, April 10.

Name:

Email Address:

Please identify yourself as one of the following:

_____ Graduate student

_____Postdoctoral Fellow/Associate

Whose lab are you in?

When did you matriculate/come to MIT?

When do you expect to graduate/leave MIT?

Are you an international graduate student/post-doc?

Why are you excited about becoming a Communication Lab Fellow? Explain. (Maximum 250 words)

What is one science communication need you observe at MIT and what ideas do you have to address that need? (Maximum 250 words)